

International Conference "Perpetrator Research in a Global Context"
January 27th - 29th (2009), Berlin
Dear Mr./Mrs.,

I would like to draw your attention to the international conference "Perpetrator Research in a Global Context" in combination with a Europe-wide competition, which is presented by the Federal Agency for Civic Education, the Holocaust Research Centre at the Royal Holloway, University of London and the Essen Institute for Advanced Study in the Humanities.

The conference seeks to discuss various aspects of perpetrator research, which will be highlighted in five different thematic panels. These workshops will seek to illustrate ways of how to implement the knowledge resulting from academic research into civic education, and communicate it to curricular and extra-curricular education and activities, as well as to work related to memorials, intercultural education, and arts.

The competition is taking place within the context of the conference. We are searching for innovative projects in civic education that are concerned with the issue of the perpetrator concept.

More information about the conference, the registration as well as the competition can be found at <http://www.bpb.de/veranstaltungen/DUDBX8,0>

Thank you for your interest!

Best regards
